

Arts Integration Summer Institute

A dynamic, hands-on three-day Arts Integration
Summer Institute, where creativity meets innovation!

The Arts-centered learning institute is an 18-hour course that engages educators in creative, integrated teaching strategies drawn from Studio Thinking research by Harvard's Project Zero and local Bay Area arts educators. These strategies support Project-Based learning, Social-Emotional Development, and Culturally Responsive Teaching for teachers, teaching artists, and administrators at all grade levels.

NOTE: Participants can earn one Continuing Education Unit (CEU) through the University of the Pacific for attending.

All grade levels welcome | Space is limited | $300
